POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

With Congress in open revolt against President Roosevelt's new ten billion dollar tax program and with both sides jockeying for position, it is rapidly becoming apparent that politics will probably play a bigger part than economics in determining the new taxes which are finally imposed.

The Administration, for example, was boldly playing politics apparently looking ahead to next year's elections, when it proposed to relieve nine million low bracket wage earners from direct Federal taxation by repealing the Victory Tax—and when it recommended easing the Federal burden on fourteen million others.

Politically, that may add up but economically it doesn't—because Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, in submitting the Administration's tax program, said that the American people have twenty-five billion in "excess spending money" which needs to be siphoned off to avert the threat of disastrous inflation. And he added that "four-fifths of this dangerous excess is in the hands of people earning less than $5,000 a year."

Just to illustrate how politics scrambles economics, Mr. Morgenthau then turned around and proposed that tax increases on this group—the group with the excess—be less than the tax increases imposed on other groups.

One of the problems in taxing low income and middle income groups, of course, is that while many in these categories are now enjoying boom war-time wages, and should rightly pay increased taxes, many others with fixed incomes are still earning about what they got in pre-war days and trying to stretch their paychecks to meet drastically increased living costs.

While there will doubtless be a great deal of hectic debate before any decision is reached, it is quite probable that in the final show-down Congress may enact a 10 per cent Federal sales tax, for the duration of the war—on the theory that this is the only practical way to catch up with the people who are earning and spending in excess of pre-war standards.

This, in fact, already has been suggested to Congress by M. L. Seidman, chairman of the tax committee of the New York Board of Trade, as a substitute for the six billion dollar boost in individual income tax rates which Secretary Morgenthau recommended.

Admittedly, the forgotten man with a pre-war income would also pay the 10 percent Federal sales tax, but spending less, he would pay less than his war-rich neighbor. That at any rate is Mr. Seidman's theory—and there is considerable merit in it.

Red Cross Council Elects Officers at Monday Meeting

The Campbell Red Cross Council met Monday evening for election of officers and yearly reports.

Mrs. Lloyd C. Shank was elected chairman; Mrs. Clarence Fagalde, vice chairman; and Mrs. Emmet L. Farnham, secretary-treasurer, succeed-Dan W. Clark, Ray Mathis, and Guy Farley, respectively.

The former officers retired owing to the press of other duties after serving faithfully for several years, but remain on the board of directors, with Mrs. Edna F. Smith and Ira H. Grim.

Heads of the various departments of the Campbell branch are also members of the council and their names and titles will appear later.

Another matter of importance was the change in the location of the sewing and surgical dressings room, as the present quarters have been rented.

The Odd Fellows are again giving the use of their banquet room for the sewing and knitting units and Mrs. William E. Billings has offered her cabin across the street and down a couple of doors as a store room.

Three rooms on the upper floor of the Curry building are being prepared for the surgical dressings room through the courtesy of Mrs. B. O. Curry.

The sewing unit will be back in its former quarters for next Wednesday.

Dehydrating Plant Starts Work Mon.

The Campbell Products company will be starting its season dehydrating of vegetables on Monday, Oct. 18.

There still is opportunity for local residents, both men and women, to aid the war effort in preparation of food for our armed forces on the fighting fronts.

Those wishing to avail themselves of this opportunity should apply at the plant at once.

Midshipman David Curry of the California Maritime Academy at Vallejo, was home Sunday for a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. Marie Curry, 511 West Campbell avenue and his brother Patric, a student at Montezuma Mountain school.

Registration for Ration Book 4 Starts Next Week

Registration for ration book 4 will be held next week for three days only, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at the Campbell high school gymnasium, hours 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., as stated by Ira R. Abbott, in charge of the registration.

Citizens of the community will assist in the work during the morning and until 2:30 in the afternoon, when the teachers will take over as heretofore.

It is imperative that whichever member of the family is going to register for the new book must bring all of the book 3's, as no book 4 will be issued to anyone not having a 3 book.

Application blanks may be printed in newspapers and if so, registrants are asked to fill them out and bring with book 3 to save time.

Applicants will be required to sign on book 3 that they have received book 4.

Grammar P.-T. A. Held First Meeting Of Season Tuesday

The first meeting of the Campbell Grammar School P.-T. A. was held Tuesday, Oct. 12, at 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. C. P. Klassen, president, opened the meeting with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the Pledge of Allegiance, and the reading of the P.-T. A. collect.

The first part of the program consisted of entertainment by pupils of the kindergarten and first grade.

After a brief business meeting, Mrs. Rex Fuller, chairman of the day, introduced O. B. Mathews, an executive from the Boy Scout headquarters of San Jose. He brought challenging facts on juvenile problems which could be overcome by teaching citizenship in the home.

Ira R. Abbott, principal of the school answered questions from the floor and announced that around 25 tons of paper had been brought in by the children.

He then introduced the teachers and the hospitality chairman, Mrs. Paul Frank, who presented them with corsages. New mothers joined the teachers in front and introduced themselves and they, too, were presented with lovely corsages made by the executive board members.

The meeting was adjourned to the cafeteria for coffee, ice cream and cookies with the board, kindergarten and first grade as hostesses.

NOTICE

As no rubber soled shoes can be purchased Rev. J. H. Bennett is asking if there are any homes where boys have had such shoes that are not now in use, if the boys club could have them. They would be very greatly appreciated as now the boys have to play on the gym floor in stocking feet.

Margaret Keesling Is Bride of Harold Courtney in Islands

Miss Margaret Keesling and Harold Courtney were married in the First Methodist church in Honolulu on Saturday, Oct. 2, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride was given in marriage by Henslee Towill. She wore a dress of aqua blue and a wedding lei of eight strands of pikakie. Her hat was of matching color. The matron of honor was Mrs. Towill and she wore a pale pink dress with hat to match and carried a bouquet of plamerias. Arthur Devitt, formerly of Campbell served as best man.

There were thirty friends present at the ceremony and a reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Towill.

Mrs. Courtney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Keesling of Rincon avenue, Campbell. For the past four years she had been employed in the San Jose school department. She now has a teaching position in the Punahau school in Honolulu.

Mr. Courtney, formerly of San Jose and Oakland and well known in Campbell, is connected with the engineering division of the war department in Honolulu.

Their wedding date has an added importance since it is the wedding anniversary of Mrs. Courtney's parents and her maternal grandparents.

Observers Given Awards At Meeting Here

The meeting of observers on Tuesday evening was honored to have Captain Roy Emerson as a guest. He spoke briefly on the purpose and function of the filter board.

After a restricted picture, Captain Emerson presented awards to all observers having served 100 hours or more. S. P. Ingram was the recipient of a pin as a reward for 500 hours of service. C. P. Klassen was awarded a chief observer's pin.

The army officers who had charge of all Aircraft Warning stations place the Campbell post as one of the most efficient. Certainly it has not always been easy for the observers, but they can all look back with satisfaction upon a job well done.

The people of Campbell and the vicinity who helped with the post in one way or another, are to be commended and deserve a vote of thanks.

William J. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh N. Nelson of Campbell, who enlisted in March, 1943, has graduated from the naval air technical training center at Norman, Oklahoma.

Harvey Wood who is taking his basic military training at Fort Benning, Ga., has passed examinations for college education in basic engineering after the completion of his present assignment.

Reports Heard at Kiwanis Club Meeting Tuesday

Campbell Kiwanis club heard interesting reports of the California-Nevada convention held last week in Santa Cruz at the regular Tuesday meeting, with President W. H. Van Dyke commenting on the attendance. There were 129 clubs represented out of 154 in the district, with 360 registered delegates. He also told of the type of activities being carried on by various clubs in the line of war work.

C. P. Klassen reported the Friday evening program which was attended by 19 members and wives from the Campbell club. One feature of this session was a memorial service for members departed during the last year.

The nominating conference selected Russell Stephens of Healdsburg as the governor of the California-Nevada district for the coming year, Jack Murdock reported and he also told of the Saturday morning meeting at which the talk of Dr. Walter Dexter, state superintendent of public instruction on "Kiwanis In A World at War," was the outstanding feature.

Events of Saturday afternoon were related by Ira Abbott, one being the selection of Los Angeles as the convention city for 1944.

Saturday evening an aquacade was provided as entertainment described by J. C. Agostinho.

W. H. Van Dyke was elected lieutenant - governor of District 12 of the California-Nevada district, which includes the clubs at Campbell, San Jose, Palo Alto, Mountain View, Los Gatos, San Lorenzo, Santa Cruz, Gilroy, Watsonville and Monterey.

Next week Raymond Fisher of Los Gatos will speak on "A Rookie In A Defense Plant," with Ray Bishop as chairman.

Chief Observer Thanks Workers

As chief observer since January 1943, I take this opportunity to express my appreciation to you who have helped maintain the observation post. Many have served their shifts regularly, while others were always ready to substitute when needed. A small group has given a double amount of time, frequently serving twice a week.

There are those who could not serve but helped in other ways so that they, too, are recognized. To one and all, I say "Thank You!"

From Oct. 16 on, the post will be on a drill practice status, and no one needs to report except when called by the chief observer.

C. P. Klassen
Chief Observer

Beware of the Realists

Many self-termed "realists" declare that as far as the millions of men and women who work in large corporate enterprises are concerned, it makes little difference whether government or private management runs industry and signs the pay checks. For them, it is claimed, opportunity and free enterprise are merely empty words. Government domination is encouraged on the grounds that it is the easiest solution to the complex problems of an industrial society. Such "realists," and they are found in industry as well as in the ranks of labor and government, are sowing the seed of destruction of our republic.

The problem of maintaining individual security and opportunity cannot be solved by the spineless expediency of government ownership. Government ownership of basic industries, of mines, other natural resources, power and transportation, would open the way to termination of the liberty of every citizen. No matter how large an industry may be, as long as it is privately owned and operated, it represents economic freedom to those who work in it. That is, they are economically free of any form of political coercion. Their jobs do not depend upon how they vote.

Destruction of private industry means destruction of representative government. This is a fundamental truth which every soldier and every war worker must keep clearly in mind during these troublesome times.

Ban On Kissing

The safety committee of the Salt Lake City Council of Women has proposed that kissing be banned by health authorities for the period of the war.

They have offered their recommendation to create a moratorium on kissing for the duration because, they claim, "it is the country's unhealthiest habit, which has no place in a nation which needs every ounce of strength for victory."

Picture the poor soldier boy, leaving for the wars unkissed should the proposal by the good women of Salt Lake City become law—and somehow be enforced. Later, on some Pacific Isle or in darkest Africa, he might receive some prophylactic X's at the end of his letters from the girl friend, or even some lipstick impressions, but somehow or other they would seem poor substitutes for the warm and tear-stained smack he expected at the station as his troop-train pulled out.

Maybe among all the new drugs born of war needs there is one potent enough to allay the fears of the worried Salt Lake ladies against the danger of osculatory indulgence. But if there isn't, the answer to their proposal is still the same: the price of victory is high, but not that high. And anyway, who ever heard of a fellow being kissed to death!

Getting the Bird?

Just a moment! If you're sharpening the carving knife in anticipation of a Thanksgiving turkey, you had better save your energy until you're sure you can get one.

As things stand right now Uncle Sam has an order in for about 12 million pounds of Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey for the lads overseas, and about twice that much for the service boys here at home. Thus far, only 8 million pounds have been rounded up.

Of course, it won't do any good to get your feathers ruffled about the situation. When Thanksgiving comes you may be lucky and get the bird on a plate, or maybe you'll just "get the bird." C'est la guerre!

What Is Education

The investigation by the State Senate Interim Committee into the California school system puts the spotlight on our educational methods.

Just what is wrong with these methods, if anything, we don't know, since they are both praised and condemned. But we are prompted to call attention to a two-year survey of American schools from coast to coast recently concluded by a New York professor.

He declared, "No appreciation of the individual's duties to his country and community was evidenced by the children, and they seem to have no real understanding of the meaning of democratic behavior."

Whether or not the professor's survey accurately reflects the attitude of most American school children is open to debate, especially in California, but it is nevertheless thought-provoking. And it suggests the question: What is education? Is it the accumulation of facts which the student may tuck away in his mental file? Is it the training that enables him to answer the $64 question?

Certainly, the educational process, no matter how thorough academically, fails completely in its purpose unless it also inculcates in the student some understanding of his responsibilities as a citizen in a democratic form of government. It also falls short unless it arouses an appreciation for the homely virtues, such as showing him the need of being honest first and clever afterwards. Real education, therefore, is something considerably more than "book larnin' ".

What the effect of the Senate's investigation will be remains to be seen, but if it in any way helps to bring about greater emphasis on the more basic phases of education, it will have served a good purpose.

Don't Tax the Doughboys

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's tax proposals, so far cold-shouldered by Congress, include among items due for heavier taxation, beer and bowling Both are favorites with men in the armed forces, with boys whose paychecks from Uncle Sam say a curt "No" to golf course and night club appetites.

War is expensive and the threat of inflation is real, but in the opinion of most of us, neither warrants any higher taxes than necessary on the slim purses of our fighting men.

There are other items not so closely affecting service men which can better bear the burden of the tax collector's heavy hand—items such as jewelry, furs, liquor, perfumes, symphony tickets and similar luxuries in a nation at war.

The members of the armed forces are contributing their all and offering their lives. One needn't be a devotee of either the bowling alleys or beer parlors to know that both mean relaxation to doughboys on leave. Neither these nor any other small pleasures the boys can afford should be denied them by taxes that make them impossible.

Something to Remember

No industry has worked more conscientiously or has had more detail to comply with in connection with OPA rulings than has the nation's food industry.

OPA would be helpless in carrying out a rationing and price ceiling program without the cooperation of the stores. Therefore, it is an obligation of OPA officials to simplify rationing and price ceilings as rapdly as improvements are possible. Friendly cooperation by the three parties at interest—the government, the stores and the consumers—will secure results unobtainable by antagonistic policies.

Fish Fare

Although the amount of fish eaten by Americans has risen from an average of 12 pounds per person in 1932 to 15 pounds in 1942, this country's consumption is far behind that of other nations. England reports a 35 pound per capita consumption and Sweden 52 pounds.

NEWS OF THE LATEST ARRIVALS

Those of you who crave a Mystery often or occasionally will be thrillingly excited with the word that Leslie Charteris has come forth with another of those smart and fascinating "Saint" stories. This one is "The Saint Steps In." If you have not met the Saint prior to this, words are inadequate to express a near idea of what is in store for you; while on the other hand if you are acquainted with his daring and courageous enterprises, particularly in aiding a damsel in distress to unravel a seemingly unsolvable mystery, this tale will be a satisfying addition to the lengthy list of 'Saint' books. Our present day Washington, D. C. is the locale for activity, and sabotage and espionage fire the theme interest.

Lange Lewis, author of "Juliet Dies Twice" hands us a murder mystery entitled "Meat for Murder," which I boldly venture to state, she relinquished a few highly prized 'ration' points for her 'Meat' for which she murdered. Hollywood is the stage and upon this aptly chosen stage the author has placed characters common to the famous city. Earl Falkoner is a designer of sets for the movies and a great eccentric. The house in which he lives is a stucco castle, protected by tw bodyguards, a dried up and fanatical cook, and three big dogs. A more ideal set-up for murder and chilling thrills I have not met in dozens of mystery books. There are many characters and all stand in the light of suspicion. And the light of suspicion is the most unique bit of mystery craftsmanship yet printed. It's worth any murder mystery fan's evening.

"Nurse's Aide" by Lucy Agnes Hancock will please many a reader who loves something not too heavy and not too light and airy. This author, as many of you well know, handles the hospital and doctor problems with the ability of an artist. She knows much about which she writes. There is romance herein to sooth the yearning hearts.

As a grand finis, I find on the bottom of the stack Mary O'Hara's "Thunderhead," the sister-book, as it were, to "My Friend Flicka." The author's name speaks for itself. "Thunderhead" is as great as her first book.

Harvey H. Stickey, Rt. 1, Box 610, Casey road, a Mission cab driver was barred from the road for 30 days for violating OPA regulations of 35 miles per hour driving speed. He has no car so held no gas coupon book.

Funeral Rites for Auto Accident Victim Friday

Naum Unchn (Jim) Atanasoff, husband of Mary Atanasoff of Campbell, died in the county hospital Tuesday and services will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. from Monahan's and St. Mary's church. Deceased was a native of Jugoslavia, 58 years of age.

Shortly before 8 o'clock Monday evening Atanasoff was struck and hurled against his parked car on the bridge over Los Gatos creek in Campbell by a car driven by Adolph Dominquez, 39, laborer of Campbell, who was arrested by Highway Patrolmen Gus Mariotti and George Humburg on drunken driving charges. The victim was taken to the county hospital for treatment and died the next day. The body was sent to Monahan's parlors pending an inquest by Coroner Jessie Spalding.

Capt. Ed Tressler of the highway patrol squad conferred yesterday with District Attorney John P. Fitzgerald on the advisability of making the charge negligent homicide.

Press Hears from Walter Smily

Walter G. Smily writes from Washington state where he is located that they are enjoying Indian summer which is proving warmer and better than the alleged summer of which there was practically none.

He had enjoyed some good trout fishing and as the salmon were beginning to run he hoped to catch a few.

He sent greetings to his friends and added, "I would like to get back 'home' for a day or two. Campbell would look awfully good to me and if I ever get back to the Valley of Hearts Delight I will be hard to move."

Concert Series Opens With Draper and Adler

LARRY ADLER

Over 1000 season tickets have already been sold to the eighth annual San Jose Concert Series, showing that the seven attractions which the Denny-Watrous management is bringing to San Jose this season are meeting with enthusiastic response.

Paul Draper and Larry Adler, tap dancer and harmonicist, open the fall musical season on Friday evening, Nov. 5, in a program of classics and popular music. These two young Americans with their lowly American arts, a hoofer and a mouth-organ, have won sensational fame. Son of Paul and Muriel Draper, and nephew of the famous Ruth Draper, Paul Draper has studied Russian Ballet as well as his taps, and combines the two in a way that only genius could fashion, to music of Bach and Beethoven. He has danced to the playing of the Boston Symphony orchestra and been acclaimed everywhere.

Larry Adler has toured the British Empire, playing with the London and Australian Symphony orchestras, and with some nine of the major symphony orchestras of this country. He has played command performances for Edward VIII, George VI, King Haakon of Norway, King Gustav of Sweden.

The Ballet Theatre on Feb. 1; Marian Anderson on Feb. 25; Nelson Eddy on March 21; the Baccaloni Opera company on March 24; Lawrence Tibbett on April 11, and Rubinstein on April 21, completes the series.

CLICK...and on goes service to our MILLIONTH Electric Customer

When Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Gill came to San Francisco by way of Utah, New Mexico and Arizona and established a home at 1420 Kirkland Avenue, they became our Millionth Electric Customer. We were happy to be ready and able to serve these newcomers with dependable and economical electricity. But the most pleasing of all was when Mrs. Gill was asked—"Have you received your first month's P. G. and E. electric bill?" And her answer was "Why, yes I have it right here. It is exactly $3.46. The last place where we lived our bill was always considerably more than that amount, and I am using my same electric range, washing machine and other appliances. I know we are going to like San Francisco."

On the Home Service Front during a five year period of defense preparation and later the all-out production for war, more than 150,000 new electric customers have been connected in service.

On the War Service Front the amount of electric power needed to supply military establishments and war industries alone is equal to TWICE the normal daily requirements of the City and County of San Francisco. And during the past five year defense and war period more than 3500 miles of new power and transmission lines have been erected.

Kilowatt hours to help speed the man-hour production of military supplies is our main job these days. The men in the powerhouses, the men that maintain and build the power lines, the engineers and clerical help—some 12,000 employees of this company—are determined that an adequate power supply shall be maintained. This will be done, even though more than 2300 employees of this company now serve in the armed forces. California and the Nation can depend on that.
